A group of children are participating in an outdoor activity, likely a field trip or a school project. They are wearing colorful hats (blue and orange) and gloves, and are focused on digging in the soil. One child in the foreground is wearing a blue hat and a light blue long-sleeved shirt, while another is wearing an orange hat and a blue t-shirt. They are all wearing gloves and appear to be working together to uncover something buried in the ground. The background shows other children and adults, suggesting a group activity in a natural setting.

A group of children are outdoors on a grassy area. In the foreground, a boy in an orange shirt and black pants sits on the left, looking down. Two other children, wearing orange hats and light-colored shirts, are crouching and pointing at several sweet potatoes that are laid out on a yellow circular mat on the ground. In the background, other children in various clothing and hats are visible, some standing and some sitting. The scene is brightly lit, suggesting a sunny day.
